A Brief History of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, the oldest in America, was organized on November 24, 1827, at a meeting held in Franklin Institute, Seventh street below Market.

A notice inserted in the newspapers during the previous week stated that "those persons desirous to form a Horticultural Society are requested to meet at the Franklin Institute, South Seventh street, on Saturday next at 12 o'clock precisely." This announcement was signed by James Mease, M. D., George Pepper, Reuben Haines, Charles Chauncey, William Davidson, N. Chapman, M. D., John Vaughn, Joseph Hopkinson, Horace Binney and Mathew Carey.

After deliberation it was "Resolved, That it is expedient to establish a Horticultural Society in the City of Philadelphia for the promotion of this highly instructive and interesting science and that a constitution be framed for that purpose."

This, together with the by-laws, was presented at the second meeting of the committee appointed to draft both articles which were duly received and approved. The annual dues were fixed at five dollars, and life memberships at fifty dollars.

The second and third meetings of the Society were held, respectively, on December 14, 1827, and on June 2, 1828, at 173 Chestnut Street. Thereafter the meetings were held as follows:

August 4, 1828, to January, 1830, Hall of the American Philosophical Society.

January to May, 1830, Athenæum Hall.

May 3, 1830, Mrs. Mercier's, on Third Street.

May, 1830, to April, 1832, Phœnix Hall, Zane Street, now Filbert Street.

May, 1832, to May, 1833, 121 Chestnut Street (o. n.).

June, 1833, Hall of the American Philosophical Society.

July, 1833, to July, 1835, Athenæum Hall.

August, 1835, to March, 1837, Hall of the Franklin Institute.

April, 1837, Athenæum Hall.

1840, Philadelphia (Chinese) Museum.

July, 1854, Sansom Street Hall.

November, December, 1854, Assembly Building (Tenth and Chestnut Streets).

February, 1855, to December, 1861, Concert Hall (Chestnut Street above Twelfth).

January, 1862, Southwest corner Broad and Walnut Streets.

July, 1867, Horticultural Hall (Broad and Lardner Streets), to January 31, 1881, when building was destroyed by fire.

1881, after rebuilding, Horticultural Hall, to May, 1893, when building was again destroyed by fire.

1893, St. George's Hall.

1894, returned to Horticultural Hall, one room in the ruins having been repaired for temporary use for meetings.

1894, Hall of the College of Physicians.

1894, 1895, New Century Drawing Room.

June to November, 1896, College of Physicians.

November, 1896, to July, 1917, Horticultural Hall (Broad Street below Locust).

July, 1917, until present time, 606 Finance Building.

EXHIBITIONS

The first exhibition held by the Society was given November 3, 1828, in the hall of the American Philosophical Society, Sixth Street below Chestnut, and these displays were held regularly while the Society continued with this as a meeting place.

The Council was constituted a Committee to Offer Premiums for Competition on December 7, 1829, and on January 4, 1830, reported to the Society with premiums of $42 for vegetables and $81 for fruits.

The annual exhibitions, which were held often under novel circumstances, attracted wide attention, not only by the beauty of the displays, but because of the many new varieties of fruits and vegetables which they supplied to the markets.

A glance through the annals of the Society reveals, for instance, that the poinsettia was exhibited for the first time at the Society Exhibition in June, 1829; that the first dahlias were shown before the members in 1832, and that the seed of the sugar beet was introduced into the United States by the organization and distributed to its members in 1836.

In June, 1841, in answer to a petition submitted to city councils by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, the south side of Walnut street at Washington Square was portioned off for a Flower Market.

In 1855 when the twenty-seventh annual autumnal exhibition was in course of arrangement, it was decided to show the exhibits under a tent on Penn Square, on the site of the present Municipal Building. The exhibition of 1856 was held at the same place.

With the completion of Horticultural Hall in 1867 the opening was celebrated by an exhibition held on June 6. The displays continued to be given in this building until the hall was destroyed by fire January 31, 1881. The structure was rebuilt and again used by the Society for its flower shows until the second destruction by fire, May 27, 1893.

The new Horticultural Hall, Broad Street below Locust, opened in 1896 with the November Exhibition, and all subsequent displays were given there until June, 1917, when the property was sold.

The headquarters of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society were removed then to the Finance Building, and in the years that followed, the Annual Exhibitions were held, respectively, in the First Regiment Armory, Broad Street at Callowhill, in suburban towns near Philadelphia and in the Academy of Music.
